Kinsmen Club of Saskatoon Donates $10,000 to Central Saskatchewan Military Family Resource Centre

March 22, 2011 (Dundurn, SK) – The Kinsmen Club of Saskatoon has donated $10,000 to the Central Saskatchewan Military Family Resource Centre (CSMFRC) to fund activities and programming for the families of Canadian Forces (CF) members posted to central Saskatchewan or deployed overseas.

“The kids and spouses of military personnel often carry a heavy load, dealing with frequent moves and an ongoing cycle of separation and reunion with the Forces members who serve our country. Our goal at the Centre is to promote healthy families for those who share in the unique experience of military life by advocating or providing programs or services. The very generous donation from the Kinsmen will support several activities that would otherwise be impossible to provide,” said Aubrey Eaton, CSMFRC executive director.

The CSMFRC uses all available resources to implement programs and events. The ongoing support of the Kinsmen Club of Saskatoon has brought us closer to our goal of assisting each family the best of our ability.

“Our club has always worked to make Saskatoon a better place to live and work,” said Rick Peddle, President of the Kinsmen Club of Saskatoon. "This is especially important for military families, who are often new to our community and may not have the same access to programs and services."

The CSMFRC is a charitable non-profit organization that has been providing services to CF families since 1993. It is one of 32 centres located on military bases across the country. Along with providing programming and opportunities for CF families the organization also operates a fully licensed child care centre serving both Canadian Forces and civilian families.
